TRAINING PARTNER

Interview with Sean Kelly

ABOUT: CITEFLY

citefly.com

Citefly Safety Services has 30 years of experience in the industrial and construction trades, their team has developed safety training courses that resonate with tradesmen of all experience levels. OSHA safety training courses are an important part of every company's safety program, but how those courses are taught, is what really makes the difference between a "near-miss" and an "incident".

Citefly is more than just safety training, they offer their customers third party equipment inspection services! These services include equipment and site safety inspections.

Training Management Process: Before WalletCard

Worked for a company for over 10 years and have done this in all different ways. Found you on the internet and this is what I started with and how I envisioned it.
